Teaching, learning and curriculum: ensuring both academic rigour and empowerment:

Ensuring both academic rigor and building-in experiences that help students overcome their socialization as well as allows them to develop an alternative world view, fills them with aspirations of a transformed life and gives them confidence to explore the opportunities is an important objective of residential schools for students coming from deprived contexts. VJSS have been successful in building in the elements of empowerment but have sometimes been questioned on the issue of academic rigor. A perusal of all together throws the following principles and practices as being critical ones for success; some are integrated at policy level while others are a matter of institutional shifts and more creative planning for implementation:

Creative use of library, exposure trips and inter-school competition:

Creative use of known teaching –learning experiences such as the use of library, exposure trips and inter-school competitions to strengthen learning and generate greater confidence among students emerged as an important distinguishing feature; how these processes are planned and carried out determines whether it is a good practice or not. Mere presence of library is not enough but planning particular activities around that (e.g., quiz on achievers whose biographies are available in the library) ensures reinforcement of academic learning as well as opens up new ideas and aspirations. Similarly, travel to a historical place itself could be an enjoyable, watching a film made on a celebrated athlete or a travel to historical town like Puri, where a number of reflective and interactive exercises (discussions, preparing project reports) follow the act again add to the academic learning and to confidence/aspiration building. Similarly, Inter-school competitions have been Organised for promoting and showcasing individual as well as group skills, and boosts confidence. What is important here is that all these are also planned well and integrated clearly to the dual curricular objectives.

The de-addiction approach:

In VISS we believe that addiction is a physical, mental and spiritual disease that affects every area of human lives. The physical aspect of the disease is the compulsive use of drugs, the inability to stop using once have started. The mental aspect is the obsession, or overpowering desire to use, even when destroying lives. And the spiritual part is total self-centeredness. Denial, rationalization, guilt, embarrassment, dereliction, degradation, isolation and loss of control are only some of the results of the disease. This disease is progressive, incurable and fatal, if allowed to continue unabated. We believe that the disease can be arrested one day at a time. Like a diabetic needs regular doses of insulin to arrest diabetes, the disease can be arrested by not having that first dose of any drug, and coming to a meeting.

VIA. CONTROL & PREVENTION OF HIV/AIDS FOR IDUs

Targeted interventions are a resource-effective way to implement HIV prevention and care programmes in settings with low-level and concentrated HIV epidemics. They are also a cost-effective method of reaching people who are most at risk in more generalized epidemics.

Targeted interventions are aimed at offering prevention and care services to high risk populations (Female Sex Workers- FSW, Male having Sex with Male- MSM and Injecting Drug Users- IDUs) within communities by providing them with the information, means and skills they need to minimize HIV transmission and improving their access to care, support and treatment services. These programmes also improve sexual and reproductive health (SRH) among these populations and improve general health by helping them reduce the harm associated with behavior such as sex work and injecting drug use. Implementing targeted interventions does not negate the need for broader interventions in the community. In many settings, it optimizes the use of resources by focusing on the environments and populations in which the risk of HIV infection is the greatest.

VJSS started managing the project in Bhubaneswar from the year 2006-07. The programme is funded by Odisha State AIDS Control Society (OSACS). The organization recruited Professionally trained staff at managerial level from Project Director, Programme Manager to health professionals like Doctor, ANM cum Counselor and office assistants like M&E cum Accountant, Two ORWs, and Six peer educators towards smooth implementation of the programme.

The prevalence of sexually transmitted infections (STIs) is also high among MSM (e.g., Syphilis: 5.8 per cent to 14 per cent).

Chapter –X

Focus activities for the person with Disabilities (PwDs)

The universal approach :

The term disability does not comply with the equity and justice to humanity. The international community now address it as Differentially Able and India has gone one step ahead to address it as “DIVYANAGJAN” which recognizes them as with celestial beings.

The SDGs also explicitly include disability and persons with disabilities. Disability is referenced in multiple parts of the SDGs, specifically in the parts related to education, growth and employment, inequality, accessibility of human settlements, as well as data collection and the monitoring of the SDGs.

Disability, poverty and development are all interwoven. A country’s labor force with a high incidence of disability has a negative effect on development. Empowering the disabled in a country to be more productive and participatory in its economy leading to the affirmation of their rights and freedoms is considered as a step towards eradicating poverty as well.

Today, disability is a widely evolving subject with a rights oriented approach. Establishing infrastructure, systems and processes to protect and promote rights of persons with disabilities are mandated in every country strategy. A host of government and non-government institutions, civil society organizations and individuals are engaged in ensuring the affirmation of rights of persons with disabilities. Despite this magnanimous progress achieved at global level over the years there is much to be done at grass roots level to make every person with disability access the services that they are in need of.

Approach of VISS:

VISHWA JEEVAN SEVA SANGHA in short VISS's , mission for the empowerment of the persons with disabilities is enhancing their capacities and help them to overcome their multiple needs through individual and collective pursuits. VISS has been perusing the agenda of making an enabling environment for the PwDs in the community setting that they ensure their rights and live a meaningful life. Such situation shall arise, when the community, Government and the service provider stake the responsibilities of belongingness not just passionate.

The year 2023-24 for us has been the process of reaching the unreached and making the approaches at an higher circle .

Formation of Self Help Group among the PwDs:

Lifelong rehabilitation is a valuable approach which facilitates and enables persons with disabilities to awaken their potential and reach maximum levels at different stages of life. This shall be possible when the PwDs realizes the situation and work themselves to join the main stream of the society.

It is a scientifically proven fact that a person with disabilities faces numerous and diverse hazards and challenges in every aspect of life including but not limited to physical, psychological, behavioral, social etc. at every stage of his/her life. The adoption of a self-help-oriented approach can lead to the economic strength of the PwDs. Years back the female folk in the society were struggling for the social recognition, but today they are the most vibrant and socio economically recognized in the society. The self help group mission has made it possible. VJSS realizing the importance of SHG , continued its effort and organized another five Self Help groups among PwDs in seven villages, They sit once in month and are now bankable to initiate income generation activities.

Awareness on Livelihoods of PwDs:

The social aspect aspires towards empowering persons with disabilities needs socially by promoting their inclusivity within the family and community settings, integrating them into mainstream society through socialization and enabling them to enjoy the rights and resources within the community without discrimination and stigmatization.

Skill training of Persons with Disabilities :

Create an environment conducive to the economic betterment of persons with disabilities and their families leading to an improved standard of living by offering them financial assistance, self-employment opportunities and equipment. Ensuring the survival of persons with disabilities while giving full expression to their potential without any deterrents by integrating them to the mainstream society.

Persons with disabilities /families were provided with skill train on agarabati making and leaf plate and cup making. They Groups were linked with banks and started mechanized production units. The aim is to give the persons with disabilities opportunity to showcase their skills and talents and create an environment to develop their mental resilience to overcome challenges they face within the society.

Supporting the PwDs with Assistive devices for smooth movement:

A total of 32 assistive devices sets were provided to 26 persons with disabilities/children with special needs of the project area. These devices shall be provided by Government, free of cost. The CBR officer will identify the beneficiaries in their field activities as persons who will benefit from assistive devices. Since the government sector provides devices such as crutches, walking aids and wheel chairs freely, CBR plans to provide essential assistive devices that will help the beneficiary yet beyond his/her means to purchase due to economic constraints.

During the reported period we have organised the Awareness Programme with person with Disabilities Livelihood.

CONCLUSION:

Friends, as has been mentioned above, we have passed through yet another year with full of activities. It has been generally a very satisfying year for VJSS. In the service we extent, in our ability to mainstream Young Talented and efficient youths, trainees, women self help groups and community resource persons in reaching out to those very needy people in remote areas and for the matter in all our activities, we could achieve what we envisaged. For this, we are thankful to a large number of people and to the society as a whole. The support we received from staff was something unparalleled. Last, not the least the support I received from our Chairman, Vice Chairman, Treasurer, Members of the Management, our Auditors, Government Agencies and especially Panchayat Representatives, which is highly motivational and is something driven me forward.
